So much to see and do in Westchester

O ur LIVE Spring Season Continues in April with Jazz And Folk Arts concerts

This issue is sponsored by Curtis
As a child, I remember being so inconsolable watching the wicked queen poison Snow White, that I actually ran out of the movie theater. Steve Apkon would no doubt say: “It was the power of the image.” Apkon, founder of the Jacob Burns Film Center, explores visual literacy in his book, The Age of the Image: Redefining Literacy in a World of Screens. In Apkon’s view, mere words, sounds or signals are less pungent as compared to images that have a more direct, immediate, intimate and fluid path to the brain. There, images can be received, processed, appropriated, reformulated and expressed. It’s all in the mirror neurons. Populated as we are with images, or as Apkon calls them — visual stories — in our total environment, we listen, absorb, download, replay and express ourselves differently than we did in a pre-technological era. With new tools of communication available to everyone, we all have the access to record, edit and distribute our own visual stories. Apkon’s book is a call to “embrace technology and use it as a doorway to greater enrichment.” As a regular user of electronic devices, I tend to agree.

Today, everyone is a producer/director and the world is a stage. What we see on the screen is real in Tahrir Square, Aleppo, Damascus, and Gaza. True, it is easier for everyone to be part of the conversation. But, can we process millions of unmediated images without blurring those we wish to retain? With a camera in every hand, will we become numb and number? Or will we learn to be more discerning? Will our visual literacy change the way we celebrate Holy Week? Will we retell the story of Passover online or at virtual seders? And, if we could turn back the hands of time, would YouTube videos have changed the outcome of the Easter story? I’m just thinking.
Paramount Theater

the city-owned Paramount theater, entertainment to lease and manage to meet fundraising goals. Red House, which closed in October after failure that form inside a hollow rock. This exhibition, on view through May 24, is inspired by the natural beauty, prismatic color, and environmental context of these extraordinary pieces. Years ago, artists made their own pigments from soil and geodes, as can be found in paintings by da Vinci, Michelangelo, Raphael, and Vermeer, among countless others.

The exhibition will also present paintings and sculptures that help visitors reflect on and learn about how nature and art interact. It is evident that nature has not only inspired, but has also encouraged the creation of art for centuries past. For more info, visit: www.ryeartscenter.org.

Red House Entertainment to Operate Paramount

Peekskill officials have authorized acting City Manager Brian Havranek to begin negotiations with Red House Entertainment to lease and manage the city-owned Paramount Theater, which closed in October after failure to meet fundraising goals. Red House,

Broadway Star Christine Andreas to Perform

Christine Andreas is a Westchester “Fair Lady” having appeared in many Broadway revivals, including My Fair Lady, On Your Toes and Oklahoma. As a sought-after soprano and Tony-awardee, she will be bringing her newly arranged cabaret show Bemused to a Westchester Community College soiree on April 17 at Abigail Kirsch at Tappan Hill in her. “To-be-mused”, she says, “is the magical spark that ignites when just the right singer and just the right songwriter(s) collide,” as when Judy Garland and Harold Arlen sparked together in Get Happy, and when Frank Sinatra, Sammy Kahn and when Edith Piaf and Marguerite Mompoint became the first female songwriter in France, collaborating on such memorables as La Vie En Rose. With Kenny Ascher at the piano and Dick Sarpola on bass, Andreas will sing the songs she loves to sing, especially those “bemused” ones that amaze, astound, surprise and ignite. It’s all about chemistry. For more info, contact Patrick Hennessey, 914-606-6716.

American String Quartet Comes to Westchester

The Westchester Chamber Music Society’s (WCMS) season finale presents the American String Quartet on April 21 at 4pm at Congregation Emanu-El of Westchester. The quartet in residence at the Manhattan School of Music, as well as the Aspen Music Festival, the Westchester Chamber Music Society will perform works by Haydn, Dvorak and Beethoven. Following the concert, a reception will be held to meet the artists. Dr. Caroline Bauman, President of The Westchester Chamber Music Society, is the winner of a 2013 Arts Award for her contribution to the arts in Westchester. Hurricane Sandy: Through the Lens of Local Photographers

The entire tri-state area felt Hurricane Sandy’s wrath. In the days after the storm we came together to rebuild. ArtsWestchester’s current exhibition, Hurricane Sandy: Through the Lens of Local Photographers, features photographs from across the region, all taken by the residents who experienced the storm.

The show, on view through April 27, is more than a display of nature’s unpredictable fury. It is an uplifting collection of photographs that highlight personal stories of survival and selflessness. Photographers range in both experience – many are exhibiting for the first time, while others are professionals – and in age, with the youngest photographer at 15 years of age. The Journal News/LoHud.com also contributed 22 prints from their archives to the exhibition. Visitors can share their stories or drawings on our Community Chalkboard on the gallery’s second floor. The chalkboard will be photographed over time and shared on ArtsWestchester’s website.

The March 21 opening reception raised money for Habitat for Humanity of Westchester, which has been busy rebuilding Sandy-ravaged homes in Westchester and the Rockaways. A catalog is available for purchase at $15, with proceeds supporting ArtsWestchester’s exhibition programming. For more information, visit: www.artsw.org/sandy.

Live@ArtsWestchester Concert Series

ArtsWestchester brings jazz and folk arts-based music to White Plains this spring in its newest Live@ArtsWestchester concert series. On April 6, Gerry Malkin and his audience a selection of classic jazz inspired by such jazz greats as Miles Davis and John Coltrane. A true demonstration of Japanese culture will be displayed on April 27, when Sounds of Japan resonate throughout ArtsWestchester’s performance space as flute Master Ralph Samuelson and string virtuoso Toko Hiraoka perform contemporary and traditional Japanese music. Lastly, the Jazz & Poetry Choir Collection’s April 28 concert, led by Golda Solomon, will take the art of the spoken word to a new level as it explores work in the improvisatory intersections of poetry and jazz. The series will continue in May with an evening of Piedmont-style blues on May 3 and SAGE, all-women’s jazz, blues and contemporary ensemble, Andrea and James Rohlehr and Soul Synergy Review on May 4. For more information, visit: www.artsw.org/live or call 914-428-4220 x329.

Arts Award Luncheon: April 4

ArtsWestchester’s 2013 Arts Award luncheon, to take place at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in White Plains, will open with a reception at 12pm, followed by the luncheon and awards presentation at 12:30pm. The event is sponsored by First Niagara Bank and hosted by Tony Aiello of WCBS-TV News, who will be there to welcome guests and help honor this year’s award recipients.

This event brings together leading public figures, business leaders and arts lovers for an afternoon of celebrating the vibrant arts community that gives Westchester its cultural cache. The Arts Awards recognize individuals and organizations whose vision, commitment, and leadership enrich Westchester, its communities, and its citizens through the arts. This year’s winners are: Judy Evnin (Arts Patron), Craig Schulman (Artist), Tony Vaccaro (Artist), RiverArts (Arts Organization), Dr. Caroline Bauman (Community), Friends of North Castle Public Library (Community), and Arc of Westchester (Community), Archbishop Stepinac High School Drama Club (Education), and Rosalie Sauerhaft (Sophia Abeles Education). Tickets ($75) are still available. For information or to purchase tickets online, visit: www.artsw.org/artsaward or call (914) 428-4220, ext. 326.

Having a Ball in Westchester

Choreographer Peter Pucci’s work has appeared everywhere from the Broadway stage to The Big Apple Circus and has been performed by leading dance companies such as The Joffrey Ballet and The Dance Theater of Harlem. Pucci also directs and choreographs for his own company, Peter Pucci Plus Dancers. Having a Ball is a partnership between ArtsWestchester and the City of White Plains, presented in association with White Plains Youth Bureau and White Plains Department of Parks and Recreation. Westchester Jewish Film Festival

This spring, Jacob Burns Film Center (JBFC) returns with its annual Westchester Jewish Film Festival, from April 3-25. The center will screen 35 films from around the world that celebrate the diversity of the Jewish experience. “In selecting the 35 films, a theme emerged: the profound Jewish influence on art, music, and the performing arts,” says JBFC Programming Director Brian Ackerman. To enhance the viewers’ appreciation of the works, the center has organized special events, from Q & A sessions to live performances, to accompany the screenings. The lineup of first-rate documentaries and dramas includes Koch (April 4 and 13), about former New York Mayor Ed Koch and award-winning The Law in These Parts (April 11). The festival closes with Broadway Musicals: A Jewish Legacy on April 25, a film that explores how Jewish-American songwriters created the majority of the Great American Songbook, followed by live music as well as a Q&A with director Michael Kantor and Brian Ackerman. For more information, visit www.jbfc.org.

New Rochelle Meets Hollywood

New Rochelle has much to celebrate this spring: In conjunction with its 325th year anniversary, the New Rochelle Public Library will present a series of films that all feature actors, actresses, writers and directors who are New Rochelle natives or residents. Resident Glynnis O’Connor starred in the 1973 film, Jeremy, which will be screened on April 4. Enter Laughing (1967), which will screen on April 18, was directed by New Rochelle native Carl Reiner. Perhaps the most notable on the list, the Marlon Brando classic, On the Waterfront (1954), was directed by former New Rochellean Elia Kazan and will be shown on May 16. Last, Uptight, (1968) with star and co-writer Ruby Dee, will conclude the series.

Westchester’s Academy Awards Connections

Westchester is a breeding ground for strong and significant talent. As such, the county was well represented at the 2013 Academy Awards in nominations and wins in a variety of categories. ArtsWestchester congratulates all Westchester natives and residents who were nominated:

Larchmont resident Ang Lee (Best Director winner, Life of Pi); John Kahrs, former animator at Blue Sky Studios in White Plains (Director of Best Animated Short winner, Paperman); Former Hastings-on-Hudson resident Benh Zeitlin (Director of Best Picture nominee, Beasts of the Southern Wild); Mount Vernon native Denzel Washington (Best Actor nominee, Flight); Scarsdale resident David O. Russell (Director of Best Picture nominee, Silver Linings Playbook).

NEW ROCHELLE MEETS HOLLYWOOD

All New Rochelle Meets Hollywood films will be screened for free in the Ossie Davis Theater at 7pm. For more information, visit: www.nrpl.org.

Tim O’Brien @ Caramoor’s Rosen House Music Room

Caramoor presents Tim O’Brien, a dynamic and engaging performer, in its annual spring concert series. A versatile songwriter and musician, O’Brien explores music from the unique perspective that modern music contains the echoes of older cultures. Equally gifted on banjo, mandolin, fiddle, bouzouki and guitar, O’Brien was surrounded by classic country and bluegrass music as a young boy, before being exposed to Bob Dylan and the revolutionary folk music of his time. Today, bluegrass continues to be a strong influence on his music, as he hears its roots in modal Irish ballads and vintage swing.

Over the years, O’Brien’s many influences have inspired a successful career and unique sound that have awarded him recordings with The Dixie Chicks, Garth Brooks, and Kathy Mattea, and collaborations with Steve Martin, the Chieftains, and many others. For more information, visit: www.caramoor.org.

Cherry Blossom Festival @ Turnure Park, White Plains

Every spring, cherry blossom trees abound across Japan, inspiring a national celebration while fragrant flowers from the country’s national tree dot the landscape and petals blanket the ground. For the past 14 years, a taste of Japanese culture and tradition has been brought to Westchester County in a festival that mirrors this national celebration: the Cherry Blossom Festival. Each year, this event draws more than 5,000 attendees who look forward to experiencing Japanese tea ceremonies, Battudo sword demonstrations, Taiko drumming, music and crafts. “The Cherry Blossom Festival is celebrated all over the world so that we may welcome spring with family and friends as well as share cultural traditions with the whole community,” says Niji No Kai President Yoko Battista. To date, Niji No Kai, a Japanese-American nonprofit and Arts Alive grantee, has donated more than 90 trees to Turnure Park, where the event takes place. This year, the festival will fund the replacement of several cherry blossom trees lost in Hurricane Sandy. The Cherry Blossom Festival is a wonderful way to experience multiple facets of Japanese culture and a true chance to stop and smell the flowers.

Hugh Masekela @ Tarrytown Music Hall

When Hugh Masekela was handed a trumpet at the age of 14, he had no idea how influential he’d become in the world of music — or that he would become a key player in the restoration of heritage in Africa. On April 17, Tarrytown Music Hall presents a special opportunity to see this South African-born innovator perform live. A brilliant Grammy Award-winning musician and singer, Masekela is also a talented author, composer and bandleader who, under the guidance of Dizzy Gillespie and Louis Armstrong, developed his own groundbreaking style of music. Feeding off of African influences rather than American ones, Masekela has been honored for his contribution to the preservation of African culture, his active voice in inspiring political change and for his music — a unique blend of sounds you just won’t hear anywhere else. The Neuberger Museum of Art Reopens its Doors

Westchester art lovers have been anticipating the re-opening of the treasured Neuberger Museum of Art for ten months. On April 28, the waiting will end when the museum officially reopens its doors for a Latin-themed celebration and an engaging, provocative new exhibition. The exhibition, Pre-Columbian Remix: The Art of Enrique Chagoya, Demián Flores, Rubén Ortiz-Torres, and Nadin Ospina, artfully examines history while obscuring the lines between past and present.

With a collection that puts a contemporary spin on Pre-Columbian art, the 90 works in Pre-Columbian Remix include stone sculptures, lithographs, large-scale paintings, cyanotype prints and a monumental outdoor inflatable sculpture. Aztec, Mayan or Incan art forms are fused with pop culture imagery, yielding everything from humorous to thought-provoking results. The artists explore concerns that are specific to Latin America such as national identity, cultural colonization and immigration, but also more universal themes of corruption, war, globalization and consumption.

The Neuberger Museum of Art has long been recognized as one of the greatest cultural treasures of Westchester County. The largest college museum in the United States, boasting over 6,000 modern, contemporary and African works of art, it is known for its impressive permanent collection, 25,000 square feet of gallery space, innovative exhibitions and the many educational programs that it offers to the Purchase College and Westchester communities. For more information, visit: www.neuberger.org.

TEEN PHOTOGRAPHY CLASS

Teens ages 13-18 years old can now learn and improve upon their digital photography skills thanks to a new program offered at ArtsWestchester this spring. Professional photographer Barry Mason will help students to explore, research and document the City of White Plains. Students will also learn editing skills by using Photoshop to develop a presentation of the work they created in the class.

Classes will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:30-5:30pm between May 14 and June 13 at ArtsWestchester in downtown White Plains. Students must register by April 19. For more information about the class or to register, call 914-428-4220 x314.

WESTCHESTER AUTHORS EXAMINE MOTHER–DAUGHTER RELATIONSHIPS

Four Westchester County authors reflect on their relationships with their mothers in a new book, Still Here Thinking of You: A Second Chance with Our Mothers, to be published on May 1. After forming a weekly writing group, these women retold memories of their mothers that came to the forefront in their conversations and in their work. Reflecting on their formative years and beyond, Vicki Adesso, Susan Hodara, Joan Potter and Lori Toppel examined the circumstances that shaped their mothers’ lives, helping them to better understand their own relationships with their mothers. The intention of the book is to inspire readers to do the same.

The authors will present a reading and discussion in ArtsWestchester’s Arts Exchange building on May 4 at 4pm. “Hopefully, women who read this book will see it as a gateway,” says Toppel, “to revisit treasured moments, pass by the anger and resentment, and discover their mothers’ good intentions.” For more information, visit: bit.ly/StillHereThinkingofYou.

A company worth knowing

“Green” companies make good neighbors. Curtis Instruments is helping to make the world greener by creating technology for zero-emission electric vehicles. Headquartered in Mount Kisco, Westchester County for 51 years, we were “green” long before it was a buzzword. As one of the largest privately held companies in New York, Curtis is listed in Crain’s Top 200, and has been named one of the “Best Companies to Work for in New York.” Worldwide, we’re a technology leader in our field, with 14 locations and 900 employees. Naturally, we’ve been awarded ISO 14001:2004 certification for sound environmental management. Locally and globally, we’re working to make the world a better place.
