VELVET IS BACK

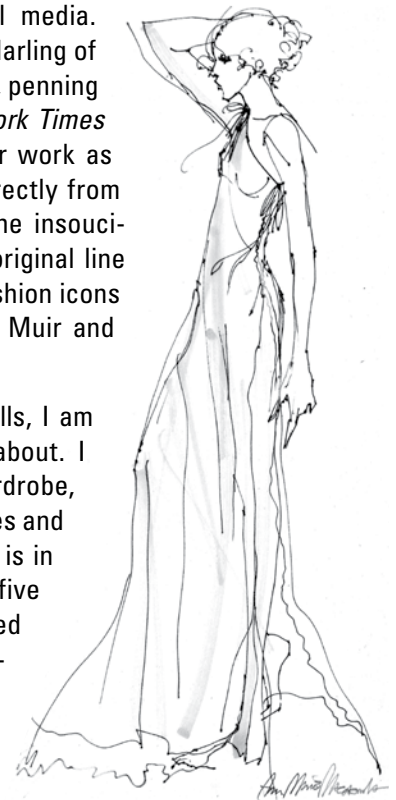

September is almost a memory so I have put away my whites...white shoes, white handbag and white duck pants. With all the troubles in the world that I can't do anything about...Syria, Kenya, Turkey...and on the home front the debt ceiling and Obamacare...I for one am distracting myself by changing my closet from summer to fall and making the really big decision of what to wear to the ArtsWestchester gala in November.

There is good news in the fashion world (if not in the real world). Velvet is back. This may not rock your boat, but for years it rocked mine. Yes, I was the daughter of a velvet salesman. I knew as a child that if top designers were using fine French velvet (the stuff of royalty) in their fall collections, and hundreds of yards of it were tumbling off the warehouse shelves, my father could afford to take our family on vacation, and perhaps bring home a new dress or two for me. Back then, the uncertainty about the velvet season was a stressful family concern.

This week, I was happy to find a fashionista soul mate in Anna Marie Magagna (rhymes with lasangna) whose father's two silk mills in Wilkes Barre, Pennsylvania, and her mother's satin backed velvet dresses inspired her fashion sense. Magagna's brilliant career as a fashion illustrator is on view at the Madelyn Jordan Gallery in Scarsdale through November 2. The gallery showcases the work of 20th century contemporary art in all media. During the 70s, Magagna was the artistic darling of Geraldine Stutz, President of Henri Bendel, penning their edgy advertisements for the New York Times with freedom and flair. She describes her work as fine art in fashion in which she draws directly from model to pen capturing what she calls the insouciant woman. Her sophisticated, yet fluid, original line drawings interpret the designs of major fashion icons like Stephen Burrows, Sonia Rykiel Jean Muir and Zandra Rhodes.

So as the leaves fall and the weather chills, I am focusing on things I can do something about. I am dieting to fit into my "other size" wardrobe, gathering stuff for the December coat drives and measuring what's in fashion against what is in my closet. Hopefully, by the time I lose five pounds, the debt limit issue will be resolved and Syria will destroy its chemical weapons arsenal. One can only hope.

Schoolhouse Theater Presents U.S. Premier of Swedish Play

The Schoolhouse Theater opens its 2013-14 season on October 10 with the U.S. premiere of And Give Us The Shadows, written by acclaimed Swedish contemporary playwright, Lars Norén. The play takes place on Eugene O'Neill's 60th birthday in 1948 as he and his third wife await the arrival of O'Neill's sons from previous marriages. Entirely fictitious, the play presents a dramatic account of what might have happened on that day. The production is directed by Moni Yakim, one of the original faculty members of The Juilliard Drama School. The play runs through November 3. For more info, visit: www.schoolhousetheater.org.

Music Conservatory Holds Tribute Concert for Carol Shiffman

MCW students Zach Berro & Mike Dymytryshyn

The Music Conservatory of Westchester (MCW) recently held a tribute concert for Carol Shiffman, MCW's Executive Director who passed away last October after a long battle with breast cancer.

Various conservatory students throughout the county performed at Share the Light: Celebrating the Life of Carol Shiffman, to honor her memory. Participating performers included pianists Ming Fong of New York City, Irena Portenko of Dobbs Ferry, and Matt Newton of Scarsdale; MCW student jazz ensemble members Zach Berro of Armonk, and Mike Dymytryshyn and Liam Davis of Mount Vernon; dancer Roseann Baker; and Israeli jazz group Trio Shalva. Upcoming events at MCW include a flute masterclass led by Mindy Kaufman, solo piccolo and flutist with the New York Philharmonic, on December 3. For more info, visit: www.musicconservatory.org.

Friends of Music Concerts Celebrates 60th Season

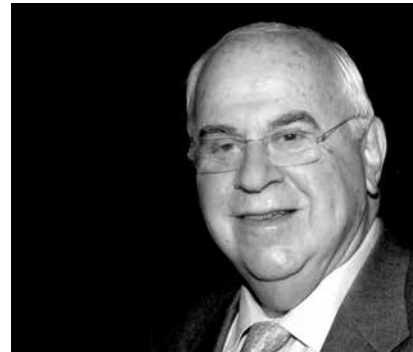

Pianist Jeremy Denk

Since its first performance in 1954, the Friends of Music Concerts, Inc. has been bringing chamber music to Westchester County audiences. The group will celebrate the start of its 60th season on October 5, with a performance by pianist Jeremy Denk. On October 19, the internationally-renowned Emerson String Quartet will present a concert of Mendelssohn, Shostakovich, and Beethoven. The Friends' 60th season continues into next year with the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center; 22-year-old violinist Paul Huang; a Franz Schubert celebration; and Canada's renowned St. Lawrence String Quartet. All concerts take place in the Kusel Auditorium at Sleepy Hollow High School. For more info, visit: www.friendsofmusicconcerts.org.

In Memoriam: Matthew Lifflander

Matthew Lifflander

Matthew Lifflander, Hudson River Museum chairman for seven years, passed away on August 18 at age 80. Lifflander, who lived in Hastings-on-Hudson, was practicing law as the founding partner of New York City-based litigation boutique Lifflander & Reich up until his last days. Born in 1932, he grew up in Jackson Heights, Queens, attended NYU as an undergraduate, and received his law degree from Cornell University. Lifflander is survived by his sons Clay and Justin and their families – including four grandchildren and two great grandchildren – and his fiancée Sandra Isaacs. A memorial service will be held at Temple Beth Shalom in Hastings-on-Hudson on October 10 at 4pm.

YoFi Fest Brings the Art of Cinema to Yonkers

The first annual Yonkers Film Festival (YoFi Fest) will make its debut on October 11, 12 and 13 in the screening room of the Yonkers Riverfront

Library, with additional activities throughout the property hosted by Yonkers-based restaurants. Feature and short films, documentaries, animation, music videos and student work from emerging artists will be featured, in addition to lectures, panel discussions, receptions and opportunities for attendees to interact with film industry professionals.

Submissions for YoFi Fest were received from around the world. Curated by award-winning film and television professionals, attendees will enjoy 52 chosen films, ten of which were either produced or directed by Westchester residents. Two feature films that will appear at the festival, I Want My Name Back and In the Family, also use Yonkers as their setting. For more info, visit: www.yofifest.wix.com.

Internship Programs Available at ArtsWestchester

Starting this fall, ArtsWestchester is offering semester-long internship programs in areas such as Arts in Education, Communications, Development/Special Events, Exhibitions and Photography. Interns will gain job readiness skills, including project management, public relations, professional writing, team collaboration, leadership, content management and graphic design.

Workshops on resume building, interviewing and writing will be offered, in addition to complimentary admission to arts/cultural events throughout Westchester, where interns can assist in building support for the arts. Internships are unpaid, and it is the responsibility of the intern to arrange transportation and parking. Some full academic year positions are available, based on an intern's performance.

For further information about specific internships, visit www.artswestchester.org/who-we-are/staff/internships or contact Jessica Timms at jtimms@artswestchester.org or 914-428-4220 x328.

Outdoor Murals to be Unveiled At New Rochelle Public Library

Dale Zheutlin

New Rochelle is the latest municipality to benefit from ArtsWestchester's public art initiative. On October 18, the façade of the New Rochelle Public Library will be transformed when a triptych mural by artist Dale Zheutlin is unveiled. The artist explains that the murals, which call to mind abstract stained glass windows, were created to represent the elements that exist in the Cosmos: sky, earth and fire.

Tom Geoffino, New Rochelle Public Library Director says, "We are delighted that this outdoor installation expands our commitment to making great art accessible to the entire community, and to fostering a stronger sense of place."

This public art installation was made possible with the support of the New York State Legislature, and additional funds from Friends of the New Rochelle Public Library and the New Rochelle Public Library Foundation. Councilman Ivar Hyden was an advisor on the project.

Zheutlin, who also created complementary banners for the interior of the library's atrium, hopes that the vibrant images will enrich the creative journey of students seeking knowledge when visiting the library.

A Horse, Of Course Exhibition Opening

A meet and greet with many of the exhibiting artists recently kicked off ArtsWestchester's current exhibition, A Horse, Of Course. The show features varying perspectives of equestrian art, from regal thoroughbreds to whimsical carousel horses, across a variety of media – sculpture, painting, photography, and drawing. A Horse, Of Course is on view through October 12.

Arts Alive Application Deadline: October 18

This year's deadline for grants in the Arts Alive category is October 18. Funding is available for community-based arts projects, as well as for artists to create new work. Project grants range from $1,000 to $5,000, with priority given to emerging cultural organizations, activities that bring the arts to underserved communities, and projects that engage a broad and diverse audience. ArtsWestchester will award a $2,500 artist grant to each of two artists, supporting their efforts to create works that in some way relate to Westchester. For more info, visit: www.artsw.org/artsalive.

Groundbreaking ArtsWestchester Exhibition Goes National

by Lisa Marie DeSanto

After ten years of mounting extraordinary exhibitions in its historic building, the Arts Exchange, ArtsWestchester is being recognized by Exhibits USA as it tours an edited version of Confrontational Ceramics. The 2008 show, originally named Confrontational Ceramics, was curated by Judith S. Schwartz, PhD, an internationally recognized specialist in contemporary ceramics, as part of ArtsWestchester's county-wide All Fired Up extravaganza.

Traditionally, the focus of ceramics has been to serve functional and decorative purposes, but there isn't anything traditional about Inciteful Clay, an innovative and sometimes shocking exhibition scheduled to tour the country for three years starting this January.

More than charming knick-knacks or practical tableware, the collection features the work of contemporary artists who push boundaries, offering thought-provoking commentary on war and politics, the social and human condition, gender issues, environmental concerns, and popular and material culture. The work is aggressive, disturbing, irreverent and sometimes violent, though threads of humor balance out the collection. Inciteful Clay explores socially relevant issues and the role of tradition in life and art.

The exhibition is slated to begin in such art centers as the Foosaner Art Museum at Florida Institute of Technology, The Arkansas Art Center and the Culture Lab at Mid-America Arts Alliance. Overall, visitors may be surprised by the ability of clay to convey significant content in this radical departure from an otherwise conventional art form. For more info, visit: www.eusa.org/exhibit/IncitefulClay.

New Exhibition Challenges the Functionality of Drawing

by Lisa Marie DeSanto

Drawing is often considered to be an artist's immediate impression, a practice of study, or simply a preliminary step in the process of creating a more polished work of art. Pushing the Line, an exhibition set to open on October 25 in ArtsWestchester's Peckham and Shenkman galleries, challenges these traditional notions, expanding the definition of drawing as an art form in and of itself.

In addition to graphite and ink on paper, the 12 artists will also present work in pastel, ink and non-traditional materials such as tape to explore the use of drawing in contemporary art practices. In addition to work by Gabe Brown, Larry Brown, Kellyann

Burns, Roz Chast, Christine Hiebert, Kathleen Kucka, Peter Sis, Cynthia Lin, Creighton Michael and Kathy Ruttenberg, artist Judy Glantzman has been invited to create a site-specific drawing inside the Arts Exchange's bank vault.

An opening reception for Pushing the Line, curated by Neil Watson, Executive Director of Long Island Museum, will take place on Thursday, October 24, from 6-8:30pm. The exhibition will be on view through November 30.

Plenty to Do During Spookiest Month in Westchester

by Alison Kattleman

With the sweetest but spookiest holiday looming over October, there are plenty of ways in Westchester to satisfy your taste for tricks and treats this Halloween.

Nowhere in the county screams "Halloween" more than Sleepy Hollow, the site of Washington Irving's famed, fearsome legend. Storyteller Jonathan Kruk comes to the Old Dutch Church to provide dramatic performances of Irving's classic tale, flavored with live spooky organ music and presented by Historic Hudson Valley (HHV).

Also in Sleepy Hollow, the art of makeup effects and costume design are on frightening display at Horseman's Hollow at Philipsburg Manor, HHV's haunted walk-through inspired by Irving's tale. Over in Croton-on-Hudson, HHV displays its Great Jack O' Lantern Blaze at Van Cortlandt Manor. An elaborate walk-through experience for all ages, the Blaze features 5,000+ hand-carved illuminated jack o' lanterns. A towering pumpkin bonfire, pumpkin dinosaurs and much more await you in this innovative October spectacle. Making its debut at this year's Blaze is the Museum of Pumpkin Art, devoted to sculptural works inspired by (but not made from) pumpkins.

For a little haunted history, a daytime visit to Sunnyside, Washington Irving's original home in Tarrytown, is a perfect prelude to HHV's other events. View artifacts related to Irving's story, enjoy shadow puppet performances of The Legend of Sleepy Hollow and experience one of Irving's eerie tales on a walk through the woods.

Also in Tarrytown, dare to enter the darkest shadows of Lyndhurst at night, when the gothic mansion transforms into Jay Ghoul's House of Curiosities. This Halloween-themed tour introduces a cast of creepy characters within the mansion as visitors are guided through eerily-lit corridors. The mansion's beautiful dining room will even be set for Halloween dinner, but watch out – those might actually be fingers in the finger bowls!

For more info on the Halloween events at Historic Hudson Valley and Lyndhurst, visit www.hudsonvalley.org and www.lyndhurst.org.

Caramoor Center for Music and the Arts

With its outstanding musical performances, historic estate, and enchanting gardens, Caramoor has been a cornerstone of the cultural life of Westchester County since 1945. On October 4 and 5, Caramoor will present its 2013 Fall Festival, two evenings of exceptional music. The festival kicks off in the Spanish Courtyard with Jazz in the Courtyard: Sonidos Latinos, a double-billed performance featuring Chuchito Valdes Trio and Colombian harpist Edmar Castaneda, joined by Cuban pianist Gonzalo Rubalcaba. The following evening will feature a Harvest Dinner, hosted by Honorary Event Chair Richard Gere, followed by a performance by the Knights, an orchestra dedicated to transforming the concert experience by creating music that transcends boundaries.

Chappaqua Library

This year, Chappaqua Library will feature Stein's Circle, a series of programs revolving around Gertrude Stein and her circle of friends in Paris, on view from October 6 through November 1. The library's programs will consist of lectures and activities that reflect on era-specific work by such creative figures as Matisse, Picasso, Hemingway and Fitzgerald. Highlights will include an outdoor, antique automobile show; a lecture on jazz, bebop and speakeasies; and a French-influenced cooking class followed by dinner at Crabtree's Kittle House. The library invites visitors to explore a time period that was rich in literature, art, and music. In a decade when the world was crawling out from under the oppression of World War I, Stein and her circle focused on the joy of life and all that the world had to offer.

Neuberger Museum of Art

A teaching museum of modern, contemporary and African art, the Neuberger is an integral part of Purchase College that presents a variety of changing exhibitions in addition to its permanent collection. Now through December 1, the museum will present The Compromised Land: Recent Photography and Video from Israel. The exhibition revolves around the land, figuratively and literally, through the intellectual and emotional interpretations of some of its artists. The work expresses a sense of unsettlement and threat, through the experience of internal and external discord, as the artists explore Israel, its politics and culture, and a complicated love for the land.

Taconic Opera

The Taconic Opera presents high-quality, professional opera events that are accessible and affordable to the general public. Productions include a full orchestra and experienced vocalists, many of whom have performed at the Metropolitan and New York City Opera companies, as well as international venues. This October, opera lovers will be treated to three performances in two locations of Norma, Bellini's beloved masterpiece. Soprano Francesca Mondanaro, who will perform the starring role as the Druid princess, has been compared to Maria Callas, as she possesses a voluminous, lush voice and an impressive range, both technically and artistically. Performances will be held at the Yorktown Stage in Yorktown and Archbishop Stepinac High School in White Plains.

Tarrytown Music Hall

The Tarrytown Music Hall presents live performances and films as part of its programming, serving over 80,000 patrons a year. Listed on the National Register for Historic Places, it is Westchester's oldest theater. Its fall lineup includes performances by well known artists such as Sinead O'Connor, Merle Haggard, David Cassidy and more, with music of all kinds – from cultural to rock, country to soul. Highlights of the season also include comedies such as The Hungry Hungry Games – A Parody, and children's productions ranging from Pinkalicious the Musical, to Dinosaur Train Live! – Buddy's Big Adventure. Joy Behar, co-host of the ABC talk show, The View, will also add her brand of comedy to an expansive list of entertaining offerings.

The Symphony of Westchester

A professional orchestra of over 60 musicians, the Symphony of Westchester is known for quality performances, world-class soloists and its award-winning Jazz Institute for Homeless Children. This fall the orchestra, formerly known as the Westchester Chamber Symphony, will kick off its 17th season with an all-Beethoven program featuring pianist Alon Goldstein. The remainder of the year will include full symphonic concerts, showcasing music from Mozart to Gershwin, with talented soloists and an annual Composers of the Future program.

Westchester Philharmonic

The Westchester Philharmonic has worked with acclaimed artists such as Midori, Joshua Bell and the late Isaac Stern. This fall, the lineup will include music from Brahms, Beethoven, Mozart and Haydn in three concerts, featuring such acclaimed musicians as violinist Ryu Goto and pianist Jeremy Denk, in addition to renowned conductor Jorge Mester. New this year, the organization will offer Inside the Music, a casual evening that includes dinner at Tarrytown's new Cooper's Mill restaurant, followed by a listeners' guide to precede the following day's concert, provided by Maestro Mester.

White Plains Performing Arts Center

The WPPAC presents a full-spectrum of performing arts events for the City of White Plains and surrounding communities. Typical lineups include comedic, theater and musical performances, and this fall is no exception. Its theater season begins with The 39 Steps, a funny, fast-paced whodunit with 150 characters played by just 4 actors. The lineup continues with a Resident Theater Training Program production of Avenue Q (School Edition), a musical comedy that tells the story of a recent college graduate's everyday struggles while trying to find work, love and a purpose. Rounding out the center's programming will be a new concert series, beginning with Holly Williams, daughter of Hank Williams, Jr.
