ALL THAT JAZZ

by Janet Langsam

Gerry Malkin

Jazz people love labels. They just can't help themselves. That's probably because their music defies explanation and often challenges logic. Ask Gerry Malkin, the 63-year old tenor sax player, who calls his ensemble "post bop." Hard to explain, he told me. He used the old Alec Baldwin line: "it's complicated." He threw out themes like stretching harmonies and aggressive interpretation of bebop. Finally, he invoked Coltrane, and then, I sort of kind of understood what I might be hearing on Friday night, September 5th from 8-10:30pm, when he sells out the house at the Arts Exchange with pals and peers whom he called "the best musicians in the area. Everyone in the band is a major solo artist." Take guest artist Scott Wendholt of Nyack. He's the lead jazz trumpet in the Carnegie Hall Jazz Ensemble who will be jamming with The Gerry Malkin Jazz Collective made up of bass player Mike McGuirk, pianist Jeff Tittson, guitarist Chris Morrison and drummer Bobby Leonard and, of course, Gerry.

But that's not all. There are nine jazz performances spread over six days... all part of Jazz Fest in White Plains. Check out cabaret singer Alysa Haas at the Arts Exchange on Thursday, September 4th from 8-10:30pm, and then on Saturday, September 6th at the WPPAC, The Blue in Green Project: A Tribute to Miles Davis will be presented by ArtsWestchester and White Plains Performing Arts Center (WPPAC) in its the 400-seat theater, starting at 8pm. The ground-breaking sounds and styles of Miles Davis will be rendered by guitarist Wali Ali, pianist Bob Baldwin, saxophonist Ray Blue, bassist Harvie S, trumpeter Antoine Drye and drummer Tony Jefferson.

Those interested in catching the ArtsWestchester and WPPAC performances might consider purchasing a Jazz Pass. New this year, a Jazz Pass will grant the holder access to all three ticketed Jazz Fest events at a discounted rate. Limited to the first 50 purchasers, buying a Jazz Pass will allow the holder to attend performances by Alysa Haas and The Gerry Malkin Jazz Collective at ArtsWestchester on Thursday and Friday, September 4 and 5, in addition to The Blue in Green Project: A Tribute to Miles Davis at WPPAC on Saturday, September 6 – for just $50 per Jazz Pass. Be there or be square.

news in brief

Digital Arts Experience Launches Tech Truck

Rendering of Digital Arts Experience's Mobile Lab

The Digital Arts Experience (DAE), located in White Plains, recently announced the launch of a mobile computer lab. Its goal is to work with schools and organizations, especially those that have limited technology resources or space. Explains DAE President Rob Kissner, "Our lab combines the experience of being at The DAE, with the convenience of our coming to you." The Freightliner Sprinter's Mercedes Bluetec technology allows for the vehicle to be parked without creating offensive odors or harmful fumes. The lab will officially be active in September. For more info, contact info@TheDAE.com or 914-644-8100.

The Farm Project Features Local Artists

For its ninth season at Saunders Farm, Collaborative Concepts has invited more than 50 local and national artists to perform, place sculptures or create installations throughout the 140 acres of the Putnam farm's rolling hills. Expect to be greeted by artists and cows, who will hang around just to let you know it's a real farm.. Open daily from dusk to dawn until October 31, Visitors are given a map with artwork locations and recommended walking paths upon entry. A Mid-Run Reception will take place on Saturday, September 27, 2-6pm, featuring Dance Entropy, directed by Valerie Green; "Howl," directed by Mara Mills; and opera presented by Career Bridges and directed by David S. Bender. For more info, visit: collaborativeconcepts.org.

Jacob Burns Film Center Expands and Renovates

Jacob Burns Film Center Rendering (courtesy of KG&D Architects)

Construction has begun at Jacob Burns Film Center (JBFC) to expand and renovate its facilities within the existing footprint of the current building. The organization will be adding two new theaters on the third floor of its cinema complex, which will add 80 new seats. The project will allow JBFC to further execute its mission to host "vital new films from around the world, as well as innovative programs," according to Programming Director Brian Ackerman. The Center will also reconfigure its Jane Peck Gallery into a café and community gathering space and replace the original seating in its three existing theaters. JBFC will remain open during construction, which is expected to be completed by fall 2015.

Franco-American Fiddler Performs in White Plains

Daniel Boucher

On September 12, Franco-American fiddler Daniel Boucher will perform in ArtsWestchester's Peckham Gallery as part of the organization's rich Folk Arts program. Boucher's music celebrates the life of the rich Franco American tradition of his ancestors. He has been widely recognized by organizations such as the American Folklife Center of the Library of Congress and the Kennedy Center. At ArtsWestchester, this acclaimed master of the Quebécois fiddle tradition will be joined by a quartet as well as by contra dance instructor Bill Fischer. Boucher often provides an interactive experience in his performances, encouraging audience members to participate in dancing and call-and-response singing. This event is presented in association with Alliance Francaise of Westchester and is made possible with support from New York State Council for the Arts, a state agency. Contra dance lessons and refreshments begin at 7pm. The concert begins at 8pm. For more info, visit: artsw.org/folkarts.

Concept of Hope Explored in Visions: Art of the Mind

From September 12-18, ArtsWestchester will present Visions 2014: Art of the Mind, an exhibition featuring the work of more than 150 original creations by more than 70 artists who are recipients of mental health services in Westchester County. The exhibition clearly demonstrates that these recipients have embraced the concept of hope and are willing to share their views of recovery. This exhibition is a partnership with Rockland Psychiatric Center and is made possible with funding from Westchester County Department of Community Mental Health and New York-Presbyterian Hospital/Westchester Division. An opening reception will be held in ArtsWestchester's Shenkman Gallery on September 11 from 5:30-7pm. For more info, please call 914-428-4220 x306 or visit: artsw.org/visions.

artsw 50th anniversary

Innovative Arts & Business Partnerships Help the Arts Thrive

Approaching a milestone 50th anniversary next year, ArtsWestchester invites area companies to join its anniversary celebration by starting an Arts & Business Partnership program. ArtsWestchester offers a diverse menu of partnership ideas for businesses to support the arts while promoting their companies. Custom programs for businesses to participate in the arts include: arts in the workplace programs, arts event and exhibition sponsorships, corporate underwriting of ArtsWestchester's monthly newspaper and website, and arts education program sponsorships as well as gallery rentals in ArtsWestchester's downtown White Plains building.

A Partnership Highlighted:

A new Arts & Business Partnership between BNY Mellon Wealth Management and ArtsWestchester will bring contemporary works on paper from a private collection to Westchester in a free exhibition this October. Drawing Line into Form: Works on Paper by Sculptors from the BNY Mellon Collection will be presented at ArtsWestchester's downtown White Plains gallery in this unique partnership. The exhibition will offer the public a rare glimpse into a significant collection featuring 69 works by some of the art world's most recognizable artists. Sol Lewitt, Mark di Suvero, Sarah Sze, Louise Bourgeois, William Kentridge, Henry Moore, and Robert Smithson are among the 59 celebrated contemporary artists that will be showcased in ArtsWestchester's fall exhibition. "Assembling this collection has been a journey of discovery," says Curator Brian J. Lang. "Each work of art offers a new perspective and opens a new window into the mind of its creator."

The oldest financial institution in the United States, BNY Mellon has a strong history of supporting the arts in all of their forms. With a corporate art collection built over 20 years, the organization has acquired superb examples of art in a variety of media including painting, drawing, printmaking and photography. "We feel privileged to partner with ArtsWestchester, one of the nation's leading arts councils to bring artwork from our private collection to the greater Westchester community," says Jean Marie Connolly, Senior Director for BNY Mellon's Wealth Management division. Drawing Line into Form opens to the public in ArtsWestchester's gallery on October 3, 2014, and will be on view until December 6, 2014.

With over 40 Arts & Business Partnerships initiated since January of this year, ArtsWestchester is well on its way to reaching a 50th anniversary goal of 50 new Arts & Business Partnerships. If your company is looking for a creative way to connect with the community, an Arts & Business Partnership might be right for you. To set up a meeting to explore arts partnership options, please call Debbie Scates, Manager of Partnership Marketing at 914.428.4220 x315. You'll be in good company.

ARTSWESTCHESTER CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

50 FOR 50

Working artists are the lifeblood of a creative community. With that in mind, ArtsWestchester is celebrating its 50th anniversary by giving special recognition to 50 Westchester artists. We invite members of the cultural community in Westchester and beyond to nominate candidates for this honor.

Nominees may be emerging or mid-career artists, or those who have reached a level of life-time achievement. All nominees must be active in their fields. A panel will make the final selection of awardees. Each of the 50 artists selected will receive an award of $1,000 and public recognition. A selection of these artists will also be featured in Beyond NYC:

Please visit our website,

When Modern Was Contemporary: The Roy R. Neuberger Collection

The Barber Shop by Edward Hopper

The Neuberger Museum of Art (NMA)'s current exhibition, When Modern Was Contemporary, provides a unique insight into the development of modern art in the United States. The show chronicles the private collection of the museum's namesake, Roy R. Neuberger. Amassed mainly between the end of World War I and the start of the Cold War, the works remain among the finest personal art collections in a public institution in the United States.

The 850-object collection, on view through December 25, is the foundation of the museum and highlights the extraordinary work of Edward Hopper, Georgia O'Keeffe, Jackson Pollock, and Mark Rothko, among many others. In conjunction with the exhibition, NMA will publish a 276-page fully illustrated hardcover collection catalogue that chronicles the exhibited work. For more info, visit: www.neuberger.org.

Upcoming Exhibition Raises Funds to Meet Housing Needs

The Preservation Company, a nonprofit organization that helps low and moderate income families of Westchester County to meet their housing needs, will host the Building Hope exhibition and auction in ArtsWestchester's 9th floor gallery space, Gallery9. The featured artwork, which is all for sale, has been generously donated by local and international artists, many of whom are giving back after being recipients of the organization's support. Building Hope is on view from September 2-6, from 12-5pm. For more info, visit: artsw.org/buildinghope or contact our gallery at 914-428-4220 x330.

Fall Classes Spotlight: Axial Theatre

Howard Meyer's Acting Program, a project of Pleasantville's Axial Theatre, offers aspiring and experienced actors a selection of workshops. Children (ages 10 and up), teens, and adults can take workshops in acting technique and scene study, playwriting, voice and movement, improvisational acting, monologue auditioning, and more. 914-962-8828, www.hmacting.org

Rye Arts Center Debuts Work of Influential Designer

'Untitled' paper sculpture by Irving Harper

Professionally, the mid-century Modernist designer Irving Harper created some of Herman Miller's most iconic furniture pieces. His personal work, however, includes hundreds of paper sculptures that Harper has never before allowed out of his Rye home. With an emphasis on simplicity and clean lines, the architectural masks and figures are made with simple tools – paper and Elmers glue – yet are extraordinarily imaginative and detailed. Now, more than 50 years of personal works will be debuted for the first time in Rye Art Center (RAC)'s Irving Harper: A Mid-Century Mind At Play exhibition, on view from September 14 through November 8. According to Katharine Dufault, who co-curated the exhibition with Jeff Taylor, "[RAC] hopes to give the viewer a sense of what it is like to live with the art as the artist intended, as these works represent an extension of his personal life and surround him on a daily basis." For more info, visit: www.ryeartcenter.org.

Film Sheds Light on the Healing Power of Dance

Still from Musical Chairs

On September 15, the Steffi Nossen School of Dance and Music Conservatory of Westchester will present the Westchester premiere of Musical Chairs, a film about the healing powers of dance. Directed by award-winning filmmaker Susan Seidelman, and produced by Westchester resident Janet Carrus, the romantic film follows a former dance instructor recently disabled in a car accident, and her determination to dance again. The screening will take place in the Music Conservatory's Stadther Recital Hall in White Plains. Proceeds will benefit both the Moving Wheels & Heels adaptive dance program at Steffi Nossen School of Dance and the Music Therapy Institute of the Music Conservatory of Westchester. For more info, contact the Steffi Nossen office at 914-328-1900 or info@steffinossen.org.

ArtsWestchester Now Accepting Applications for Community Grants

Students in Arts Alive grantee Daisy Jopling’s String Pulse Experience program

The accessibility of the arts is a human right that lifts the spirits, sharpens skills and enlightens the minds of all who participate. It is ArtsWestchester’s objective to extend this access to all Westchester communities through its Arts Alive Program. Funds are provided to small nonprofit arts organizations and individual artists to support artistic expression through various media, including performing arts, exhibitions and music.

ArtsWestchester is now accepting applications for this year’s Arts Alive grants. The submission deadline is October 17. For guidelines and a downloadable application, visit: artsw.org/artsalive-workshops. For more info, contact Jessy Méndez at 914-428-4220 x313 or jmendez@artswestchester.org.

Fall Festival at Caramoor

September 19-21, Katonah

For its Fall Festival, Caramoor experiments with brave collaborations on its stages. Banjo virtuoso Béla Fleck lends an element of bluegrass to the inventive string quartet Brooklyn Rider. The symphonic group The Knights will play two shows – one with jazz saxophonist Joshua Redman and his quartet, the second with classical violinist Gil Shaham. The latter pairing will also play a children-focused mid-day concert to help introduce youth to the world of music. Guests can spend the day on Caramoor’s grounds and discover its sound-art exhibition, In the Garden of Sonic Delights, or take a tour of the historic Rosen House. A festival weekend pass offers a discounted rate for those who want to attend multiple shows. For those who can’t witness these performances first-hand, a partnership with WQXR will broadcast the concerts live on WQXR (105.9FM) and WQXW (90.3), and online at www.wqxr.org.

A veritable feast for the eyes and taste buds, the Southern Westchester (SoWe) Food and Wine Festival features three days of tastings, demonstrations and entertainment in multiple locations throughout southern Westchester. The festival will spotlight hundreds of local chefs, restaurants and bakeries, as well as more than 300 winning wines and craft beers. While enjoying live music, guests will taste gourmet food samplings and cooking demonstrations from the Culinary Institute of America. A celebrity “Chef Battle,” including Rocco DiSpirito and Dave DiBari, will kick off the festivities.

Children’s activities, book signings and healthy eating information will round out the weekend events. For more info, visit: www.sowefwf.com.

Armonk Outdoor Art Show

September 20-21, Armonk

Glass artwork by artist Mark Sudduth

For the 53rd year, Armonk Outdoor Art Show continues its long tradition of showcasing a fresh and diverse selection of art. Sponsored by Friends of North Castle Public Library, the annual show offers works from 185 juried artists – 55 of whom are new to the show. A wide array of media will be featured, from printmaking to photography and digital art to wearable art. Personal shoppers will provide decorating assistance. All net proceeds benefit the town’s libraries. For more info, visit: www.armonkoutdoorartshow.org.

New Rochelle ArtsFest

September 27-28, New Rochelle and Pelham

ArtsFest offers two full days of free cultural programming as local establishments and galleries throughout New Rochelle and Pelham present a full menu of arts events and activities. Organized by the New Rochelle Council on the Arts, the exhibitions, workshops and family-friendly activities will give visitors and residents a taste for the cities’ cultural and artistic diversity. Among the nearly-two dozen participating venues are:

Iona College Council on the Arts offers special ArtsFest hours for its current exhibition, Sacred Silence: The Practice of Iconography, by opening its doors on September 27 from 10am-5pm.

New Rochelle Public Library showcases the 99th annual juried exhibition of the New Rochelle Art Association. A reception will take place on Saturday night, including live music from South American jazz fusion group Emilio Teubal Trio.

The Arts ♥ Jean Marie Connolly

BNY Mellon Wealth Management has a long history of supporting the arts in all its forms. This fall, BNY Mellon gives the Westchester Community a rare glimpse of major works by some of the most prominent artists of today. "Drawing Line into Form: Works on Paper by Sculptors from the BNY Mellon Collection" will be on view in ArtsWestchester's galleries from October 3 – December 6, 2014.

Supporting the arts is more than just writing a check (although we like those, too). There are many ways to improve employee morale and community involvement with your own arts and business partnership. Imagine Westchester without the arts. Then help us make sure that never happens.
