Back in the day, as I like to call the Seventies, graffiti was an “outlaw” activity in New York and other big cities. Graphic works seemed to pop up out of nowhere on subway cars, overpasses and buildings, unleashing the voices of the neighborhood. It was not easy to foresee then that this self-styled, emboldened, out-of-a-spray-can art form would be embraced by the art world as the language of a generation. But indeed, that is what has happened. It bubbled, up from the streets, into an art movement. ArtsWestchester has now brought some of these works From the Streets into its White Plains gallery, encouraging a look back at how this phenomenon, which started as a scattered form of protest, turned into an urban art explosion.

At its core, it was simply “graffiti,” an in-your-face form of protest in which buildings, walls and other properties were defaced with huge lettering applied by spray paint. The “taggers,” thumbing their noses at decorum, performed daring feats in order to “tag” public properties. No place was too difficult to tag since, in part, the act was an adventure and the process was an act of creation. Who were these brazen anonymous adventurers? Not known by their real names, these night crawlers adopted street monikers like Crash and Pink Lady to protect their identity.

The gallery walls at ArtsWestchester are now covered with massive creations by some of the most well-known taggers in the region. Like most graffiti expressions, the works are temporary. They are sprayed and painted directly onto the walls, destined to disappear in mid-July. Come see it now and lend your voice to a vibrant conversation.

A World of Quilts by Northern Star Quilters’ Guild

The Northern Star Quilters’ Guild will host A World of Quilts XXXVIII on May 6 and 7. The event includes the display of 300 quilts, as well as related lectures, demonstrations and vendors. Special exhibits include works from the group’s “invitational quilters,” Liza Prior and Rayna Gillman as well as a 50-foot-long quilt that depicts 25 locations along the Farmington River. Guest lecturer Mary Fons will give presentations on both days as well as several demonstrations throughout the weekend. Vendors will display unique fabrics and quilting supplies. For more info, visit: northernstarquilters.com.

Artist Calls for Memories From Larchmont and Mamaroneck Community

Artist Christine Aaron has called upon her local Larchmont / Mamaroneck community to share significant memories to her The Memory Project. Aaron believes that an individual’s life experiences and memories shape who that person is. This project aims to bring her community together by encouraging people to tell their own unique story. Those who choose to share can do so at a number of upcoming workshops, or by contributing an audio or handwritten memory on the project’s website. These submissions will be integrated into an art installation at Mamaroneck Artists Guild in November. Aaron was awarded one of ArtsWestchester's 2017 Arts Alive artist grants for the execution of this project. For more info, visit: thememoryproject.space.

Kykuit Opens Season With Rockefeller Estate Tours

Historic Hudson Valley’s Kykuit, the hilltop estate that served as home to four generations of Rockefellers, begins its season on May 4. Guests are welcome to one of four types of tours of the six-story stone house and its expansive gardens: the Classic tour is recommended for first-time visitors; the Grand tour is a more comprehensive three-hour delve into the history of the estate; the Timesaver tour accommodates those visitors who have a tight schedule; and the Landmark maximizes time in the gardens. The Kykuit estate includes an extensive modern and classic art collection, including more than 100 works of modern art and 70 pieces of modern outdoor sculptures. The season closes in November. Hours vary based on season. For more info, visit: hudsonvalley.org.

Cross County Shopping Center Seeks Artists For SummerFest Contest

Cross County Shopping Center has announced a call to area artists to enter its SummerFest Poster Contest. The winning poster will be used to help promote the annual Yonkers summer series. Artists of all skill levels – professional, student and amateur – are encouraged to submit two-dimensional, original works in any media except for computer-generated pieces, that they believe best exemplifies the Center’s SummerFest. The annual outdoor summer festival features concerts, fireworks, outdoor fitness classes, children’s events and more. There is no fee to enter, and the winner, along with two runners-up, will also receive a cash prize. The entry deadline is June 2. For more info, visit: crosscountycenter.com.

Westchester Choral Society Celebrates 75th Anniversary

The Westchester Choral Society (WCS) is celebrating its 75th season this year. Upon its formation in 1942, the group consisted of 15 singers, who performed Bach’s B Minor Mass in its first performance. Now Westchester County’s oldest continuously-performing chorus, WCS includes a roster of nearly 60 singers, ranging in age from 30-75 years old. Under the guidance of Music Director Frank Nemhauser, WCS will prepare a performance of Carl Orff’s Carmina Burana to be presented in a concert on May 13 at White Plains Presbyterian Church. For more info, visit: westchesterchoralsociety.org.

Yonkers and Mount Vernon Grant Opportunities

ArtsWestchester has grant opportunities available to individual artists based in Yonkers and Mount Vernon.

Craft Fair at Lyndhurst Showcases 300 Contemporary Artists

Art lovers and families will be invited to attend the annual Crafts at Lyndhurst festival, a weekend packed with art and shopping experiences on May 5-7, just in time for Mother’s Day. The festival will celebrate all-things-handmade by showcasing 300 contemporary artists, designers and craftspeople. Guests will meet the emerging and seasoned artists and be able to purchase their innovative creations. Works on display will include earrings made of stingray, contemporary wood furniture, handbags made from antique books, necklaces created from meteorites and more.

The family-friendly event also offers creative activities and interactive art experiences, such as Shibumi silk scarf-making workshops, hands-on craft demonstrations and gourmet food tastings. Children can enjoy a variety of activities, including caricatures, interactive puppet theater, face painting and stilt walkers. The festival will be held on the sweeping grounds of the historic 19th century estate, which overlooks the Hudson River, with live music to add to the serene environment. Guests can make a full day of their excursion by attending a discounted mansion tour. For more info, visit lyndhurst.org.

Gordon Parks Foundation Exhibits Works by Scholarships Recipients

Through June 3, The Gordon Parks Foundation (GPF) presents Voices in the Mirror, a showcase of five past student recipients of scholarships awarded by the Foundation. GPF’s scholarship program began in 2009, in partnership with arts education institutions, and is given to arts students who demonstrate financial need. Parks, who was an acclaimed photographer, documented race relations and American life, from early 1940s until his death in 2006, in a way that not only told a story, but imparted empathy. These students were invited to submit works that also convey empathy. Rebecca Arthur provides a glimpse into her changing relationships with her family members while they grieve for the loss of their mother. Chiara Marianai showcases photographs that convey universal feelings, such as loneliness and isolation. Maria Wirries explores her roots through photographs of Haitian women working. Rebecca Iasillo asks viewers to investigate seemingly mundane scenes of public life. Vera Tineo uses her quilt to broaden the understanding of the Black Lives Matter movement. These works will be on display in GPF’s Pleasantville gallery, alongside the popular and lesser-known works of Parks. For more info, visit: gordonparksfoundation.org.

Solo Exhibition at Purchase College Center for Community and Culture

From May 13 through 19, PC4Y: Purchase College Center for Community and Culture in Yonkers will present the work of Biagio Civale. The solo exhibition will feature a collection of the artist’s works, including a selection of woodcuts and linocuts for the section of xylography, serigraphs for the section of silk-screening and a number of assemblages and collages, as well as large-scale abstract works. These works will be on view from 4-6pm each day. Civale, a Yonkers resident, will be available to walk guests through the displays and speak with them about various art techniques he employs in his work. Many of his works are displayed in various locations throughout Yonkers. He has exhibited in several hundred shows throughout the world and has been published in various publications and websites. An opening reception will take place on May 13, from 4-6pm. For more info on the artist, visit: civale.org. For more info on PC4, visit: bit.ly/PurchasePC4.
Songcatchers, Inc.’s history begins in 1979 as a simple elementary school choir founded by Sr. Beth Dowd, OSU. Now, almost 40 years later, with Dowd continuing her support as Executive Director, Songcatchers encompasses an after school music program, choir camp and early childhood music program. The organization achieves its mission of “reaching for peace through music” by providing an array of annual music programs that are affordable and accessible for more than 300 children and families in Westchester. On May 7, Songcatchers will host “Spirit of Songcatchers Brunch,” a fun-filled musical event that celebrates both the 20th anniversary of organization’s after school music program and the visionary leadership of Dowd. Guests can enjoy musical performances by the Songcatchers’ intergenerational concert choir and ensemble, as well as performances by students and instructor instrumentals from the after school music program. The brunch will be held at the V.I.P. County Club in New Rochelle. For more info, visit songcatchers.org.

20th Annual Asian American Heritage Festival at Kenisco Dam

On May 20, the 20th Annual Asian American Heritage Festival will introduce new audiences to traditions related to Asian culture at Kenisco Dam Plaza in Valhalla. Typically attended by thousands of guests, the event will provide an afternoon of entertainment, including martial artists, acrobats and a traditional Lion Dance. Experts in cultural dances – from Indonesian and Korean to Filipino and Chinese traditions – will perform throughout the afternoon. Asian music traditions will be represented by a chorus who will sing Chinese folk songs and a guzheng instrumentalist. A “Kids Corner” will provide family-friendly activities, such as face painting, balloon sculptures, origami and more. An array of local cultural organizations and food vendors will also be available. The event is presented by OCA Westchester & Hudson Valley, which aims to share Asian American heritage with its community in order to build a deeper appreciation for these cultures. For more info, visit: oca-whv.org.

Farcical Spoof of The Hound of the Baskervilles Comes to Armonk

Everyone’s favorite detective will put on his tweed hat and cape for a farcical romp in Hudson Stage Company’s production of The Hound of the Baskervilles. Sherlock Holmes and his capable sidekick Dr. Watson will be depicted in this humorous adaptation of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle’s classic novel through May 13. When Sir Charles Baskerville is found dead with a look of terror on his face and the paw prints of a hound by his side, it is up to Holmes and Watson to unravel the mysteries of his puzzling murder. Their biggest obstacle is the supposed ancient curse of the massive hound that was put on the Baskerville family during the time of the Civil War.

Directed by Mark Shanahan, this lighthearted spoof of a classic thriller is tackled by three actors – Matt Ban, Joe Delafield and Denis Lambert – who play more than twenty roles, including those of Holmes and Watson. The characters (and actors) get tangled between several ongoing plots throughout the production – the story of the curse, the actual events, and Holmes’ progress in solving the case.

The beloved novel, initially serialized in The Strand Magazine, was the triumphant return of Holmes, after the Baker Street detective had been killed off by Conan Doyle nearly a decade earlier. Now Holmes is thrust into the spotlight once more, at Whippoorwill Hall Theatre in North Castle Public Library in Armonk.

Yonkers Arts Weekend Returns on May 6 & 7

The fourth annual Yonkers Arts Weekend will continue the City’s aim of celebrating its growing arts community. During the weekend of May 6 and 7, hundreds of local, regional and international artists will perform and exhibit throughout the City, particularly in four areas of key cultural activity. A new perk of this year’s festivities will be free admission to Hudson River Museum, which will also host a Kite Festival and family-friendly workshops. In the Carpet Mills Arts District, YoHo Artists will open their studios for the fourteenth year, inspiring its visitors to connect with its 50+ artists and observe as they create their masterpieces. Throughout the weekend, guests can enjoy free tours of Untermyer Park and Gardens, which will also present a fashion show on Sunday featuring work by Project Runway season six winner Irina Shabayeva. The Downtown Yonkers Waterfront District will feature live mural painting, pop-up galleries, performances and more. Sarah Lawrence College will offer a theatre production of Little Pea, and a creative play program at CURB.

Free bus transportation will allow people to travel between festival locations with ease, aiding in the discovery of artistic treasures throughout the City. Other participating organizations include Blue Door Art Center, Yonkers Pottery, Urban Studio Unbound and more. For more info, visit: yonkersartsweekend.com.

Neuberger Museum of Art Surveys the Work of Artist Alumnus Fred Wilson

Neuberger Museum of Art presents the work of MacArthur “Genius” grantee Fred Wilson with a survey of his work, from 1995 to the present, as well as a site-specific installation. A graduate of Purchase College, with which the Neuberger is associated, Wilson returns to his alma mater with his site-specific installation after extensively researching the Museum and College’s collections and archives for several months. Wilson is best known for reorganizing and re-contextualizing works that are in the permanent collections of the museums in which he is exhibiting. These new arrangements are meant to reveal new meanings and perspectives otherwise unseen. The artist explains: “Objects have various lives and these lives are formed by the context that they’re in. Where they’re moved to can change their meaning… My goal is to tease out other ways of looking at and viewing the objects, and see what that elicits.”

The survey of Wilson’s works from 1995 reassesses social and historical narratives. Along with three new works, this collection features 76 studio works, including: Old Salem: A Family of Strangers (1995), which consists of 20 portrait photographs of a collection of dolls found in storage, but not exhibited, at the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts in Winston-Salem, NC; Snuff, (2003) which examines the historical role of Africans in Venice, as inspired by 15th-19th century Venetian paintings; and No Way But This (2013), a series of chandeliers that are composed of Murano glass that is black instead of the traditional pastel, thereby conjuring a history of race relations in Venice. Fred Wilson will be on view through July 30. For more info, visit: neuberger.org.

Entergy Raises the Bar on Corporate Support of the Arts and the Community

The ArtsWestchester golf outing has become a “classic” thanks to Entergy, which has supported it since 2000. It was started in 1992 as an event to support arts education programs and continues this year on June 19 at Wykagyl Country Club in New Rochelle. At the event, an Appreciation Award will be given to Kenneth R. Theobalds, Vice President of Government and Regulatory Affairs, who has embraced the arts community. Says Theobalds: “As a businessperson, I appreciate the economic value that a strong creative community can provide, but most importantly, who would want to live without the beauty of art?”

“Entergy’s support of the community in general, and the arts community in particular, has been nothing short of spectacular,” says ArtsWestchester President Bob Roth. “As a major funder of the arts in Westchester, we are pleased that Entergy has been a generous supported making Westchester’s quality of life more robust.” Some of the organizations and programs receiving financial support from Entergy, in addition to ArtsWestchester, are the following: Westchester Philharmonic, Historic Hudson Valley, Lyndhurst, Sheila Baptiste jazz festival, The Paramount Theatre, Daisy Jopling Foundation, L’Amore della Musica, Symphony of Westchester, Music Conservatory of Westchester, Hudson River Museum, the Enslaved Africans’ Rain Garden in Yonkers. “That’s a huge commitment for the arts in Westchester,” Roth added.

“Entergy has raised the bar on good corporate citizenship by making deep and lasting contributions to the nonprofit world of Westchester” adds CEO Janet Langsam. For more information on this year’s golf event, visit: artsw.org/golf.

A Lineup of Free Performances Announced by Downtown Music at Grace

Throughout the month, Downtown Music at Grace (DMG) continues its tradition of free Wednesday afternoon performances. Each week, the organization presents a midday respite with a performance from 12-1:15pm at Grace Episcopal Church in White Plains. On May 3, violinist Anna Rabinova and pianist Svetlana Gorokhovich perform a program that includes Brahms and Chausson. May 10 presents a Downtown Music debut with award-winning pianist Jiaqi Long. On May 17, the 14 musicians of DMG’s resident chamber orchestra, Downtown Sinfonietta, present an all-Mozart program. The four-piece REBEL Ensemble for Baroque Music’s performance on May 24, “Court, Country & Chapel,” will include works from Fux, Bach and Telemann. Finally, “Epiphanies,” a collaboration between vocalists Ruth Cunningham and Gilda Lyons on May 31, celebrates both ancient and contemporary vocal inspirations. For more info, visit: dtmusic.org.

Four Renowned Poets to Celebrate Fifty Years of Katonah Poetry Series

Katonah Poetry Series (KPS) is celebrating its fiftieth year of consistently hosting acclaimed contemporary poets in the intimate setting of Katonah Village Library’s Garden Room. A collision of notable talents will take place on May 13, when KPS hosts a reading and panel discussion with a lineup that consists of established American poets who have read for the Series in the past. The participating poets include two-time US Poet Laureate and longtime KPS advisor Billy Collins, National Book Award winner Mark Doty, New York State Poet Laureate Marie Howe (2012-14) and Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Vijay Seshadri. Collins will lead a panel discussion, during which the poets will explore connections and trends in contemporary poetry as well as discuss where the art-form may progress to next. The event will take place at The Harvey School’s Walker Center for the Arts. For more info, visit: katonahpoetry.com.
On May 13, Performing Arts Center at Purchase College presents a performance by innovative dance theatre group Bill T. Jones / Arnie Zane Company. The Company’s repertory is widely varied in its subject matter and stylistic movements, often including musically-driven works. The program on May 13 will offer a performance of Lance: Pretty aka The Escape Artist, the story of Jones’ nephew Lance Briggs, who has struggled with drugs and a life of excess. Composer Nick Hallet and baritone Matthew Gamble will accompany the dancers with a mix of lullabies, rhythm and blues and house music. This American dance company, founded in 1983 by Bill T. Jones and his now-deceased partner Arnie Zane, is based out of Harlem but has traveled around the world. Jones is a world-renowned dancer and choreographer, who has been awarded some of the world’s most prestigious awards, including the MacArthur “Genius,” two Tony Awards and the National Medal of Arts. For more info, visit: artscenter.org.

On May 13, The Picture House in Pelham will present a special screening of Emily & Tim. The dramatic film tells the story of one couple over a period of 60 years – from the night they met into their twilight years. In a storytelling twist, the life of Emily and Tim is continuously manifested through six diverse couples, portrayed by 12 actors. These couples, each representing different ages, races and sexual orientations, interpret different stages of this long-term relationship – through love and hardship and everything in between. The star-studded cast includes Alexis Bledel, Zosia Mamet, Andre Braugher, Phylicia Rashad, and narration by Kathleen Turner. After the screening, The Picture House’s Director of Programming, Clayton Bushong, will lead a discussion and Q&A with Emily & Tim Director Eric Weber and Producer Bob Quinn. For more info, visit: thepicturehouse.org.

Pelham Art Center has announced Massachusetts resident Sammy Chong as the winner of its 2017 Alexander Rutsch Award and Solo Exhibition. The mixed-media and printed-canvas artist is the ninth winner of this juried award. Chong’s The Twelve asks its viewers to question their preconceived notions of the social, economic, political and cultural identities of immigrants. The twelve exhibited works each present a figure who is taking the role of a job that is traditionally held by an immigrant; however, the identity of the figure is visually represented by mythological and spiritual icons from the figure’s perceived culture. Ganesha, the elephant god of India, is a cashier at a convenience store while a man in an African mask drives a New York City cab. Viewing these sacred narratives as they take human form urges the observer to reconsider common cultural biases of the people who occupy these jobs, and to instead celebrate cultural diversity.

The Rutsch Award was created to honor the memory and artistic achievement of Alexander Rutsch, an artist who actively supported the Center for more than 25 years. Its winner receives a cash prize and the only solo exhibition at the Center each year. Chong, a Fine Arts professor at Boston College, was chosen from approximately 400 applicants.

The Twelve, a title that refers to both the number of works in the exhibition and a symbolic number in most religions, is on view from May 5 through June 17. An opening reception will take place on May 5. In conjunction with the exhibition, a collection of Alexander Rutsch’s paintings will be on view in the Center’s front gallery. For more info, visit: pelhamartcenter.org.
ArtsWestchester recently celebrated the opening of its current From the Streets exhibition with a reception. Visitors filled the organization’s two-floor gallery space to view works by more than 35 legendary and emerging street artists, many of whom were in attendance. Anchored by large-scale mural commissions by some of the best-known American urban artists, From the Streets follows graffiti’s stylistic evolution from its genesis as a 1980s youth subculture in the Bronx to its rising prominence in the global art scene. The exhibition will remain on view in ArtsWestchester’s White Plains gallery through July 15. Guests can also attend one of a list of upcoming events related to the show:

- June 12: “Vandalism vs. Capitalism: Which is the Dirtier Word?” panel discussion
- June 16: Stories & Sounds From Back in the Day* with Grandmaster Caz and GrandWizzard Theodore
- June 17: The Sisterhood of Hip-Hop* dance lesson, panel discussion, DJ / dance performance
- July 14: Saving Banksy documentary screening

* This event is part of ArtsWestchester’s Folk Arts program, and is made possible in part by the New York State Council for the Arts with the support of Governor Andrew M. Cuomo and the New York State Legislature.

Chances are you’ve never bought a single product we make, but . . .

We help you drive

We’re Curtis Instruments.

Headquartered in Mt. Kisco since 1960, we’re a world leader in the design, engineering and manufacture of control systems and display instruments for all types of electric vehicles, including on-road Neighborhood Electric Vehicles.

Though we’re global in scale, we’ve never forgotten our roots, which is why we remain a strong corporate supporter of the communities and causes here in Westchester County. That’s just one reason we’ve been consistently ranked as one of the top “Best Companies to Work for in New York.”

Even if you never become a customer, we’re happy to take you where you’re going.
