150 cultural organizations, numerous school districts, hundreds of artists, and audiences numbering more than one million. The goal of ArtsWestchester is to ensure the availability, accessibility, and diversity of the arts in Westchester.

If one is to be honored, I would wish it to be in such an idyllic place as Caramoor, where butterflies mingle with guests amidst lush greenery, peonies and irises, now in bloom, and the drumbeat of applause punctuating the air. That was my vision when CEO Jeff Haydon called to say that the Caramoor board wished to honor ArtsWestchester at its June gala. We felt like Apollo, the god of light and (appropriately) music, was shining his light on us for doing what we love to do, which is to give grants to more than 100 Westchester organizations and artists. That of course includes Caramoor, which brings more than 15,000 folks to its incredible site…very much in the tradition of its original owners, Lucie and Walter Rosen – great lovers of music, who hosted private musical performances prior to 1946, when the House was opened to the public. The rest is as they say “history,” which for Caramoor means a world-class summer music festival with the [pardon, please] bells and whistles and fiddles. On the night of the gala, ArtsWestchester Chairman John Peckham and I were feted by Caramoor CEO Jeff Haydon and Chairman Jim Attwood Jr. before gathering in the Italian Pavilion, a Brunelleschi-inspired outdoor structure where the Bel Canto Young Artists, under the baton of Will Crutchfield, belted out a diverse program of opera music. Every Caramoor devotee, including me, probably has their own favorite Caramoor programs. Sad to say, I missed the annual American Roots Music Festival, a mélange of “folk, country, bluegrass, gospel, blues, singer/songwriter, string band, old time, and everything in between.” But there’s plenty of good music yet to come from the renowned St. Luke’s Orchestra. I’m also looking forward to the double header of Schumann and Shostakovich on July 9 with Daniil Trifonov on piano, the all-day festival with Jazz at Lincoln Center on July 15 and an evening with Sutton Foster on July 29. “Everything we do at Caramoor…is based on the belief that music is an elemental part of a civilized society and a life well lived.” This is straight from the program book and it is well said. Ain’t it the truth!

Clocktower Players Celebrates 40 Years

Clocktower Players, Inc. celebrates a 40-year milestone this year. The resident theater company at Irvington Town Hall Theater brings theatrical events and programs to the stage. The not-for-profit, founded in 1977, offers plays and musicals presented by both adult and youth troupes for varying age groups from preschool through high school. Its educational programs provide the community with the opportunity to access and participate in award-winning productions. The 2017-18 season includes Pippin, The Drowsy Chaperone, The Lion King and more. Youth registration opens on July 1. For more info, visit: clocktowerplayers.com.

Call For Artists: Give Us the Vote

ArtsWestchester presents two calls for artists to submit proposals for new works that will considered for commissions for its fall exhibition. Give Us The Vote is inspired by the 100th anniversary of the victory for women’s voting rights in New York State and examines the state of voting rights in America today. Submission Deadlines: July 17, 2017.

Barrier to the Ballot:

This commission calls on 2D, 3D, digital, performance and new media artists for new works that consider contemporary barriers to the ballot and its impact on the American democratic process. For more info, visit: bit.ly/GUTV_barriertoballot.

“My Vote Does / Does Not Count” Voting Booth:

This commission calls for artists and artist collectives whose new works incorporate a voting booth. For more info, visit: bit.ly/GUTV_votingbooth.

Magic Box Productions Brings Digital Literacy to NYC Schools

Magic Box Productions, a Pleasantville-based nonprofit that helps students to develop visual and digital literacy, will support media arts residencies in 25 schools within New York City. Teaching artists will work with 3,000 students from low-income communities throughout the five boroughs, who will participate in hands-on workshops in photography, video documentary and animation and audio production. This program also enables teachers in these schools to supplement and enhance their teaching with media projects. The program is made possible with funds from an “Art Works” grant from National Endowment for the Arts. Student projects will be shared at community screenings and exhibits.

Valet Parking Comes to Downtown White Plains

City Center has launched a new valet parking service available to all businesses in the surrounding downtown White Plains area. Guests to the area can take advantage of the service by pulling up to the shopping center’s new Morton’s Steakhouse location at 5 Mamaroneck Avenue and visit any downtown location, including local arts organizations like ArtsWestchester, Downtown Music at Grace and White Plains Performing Arts Center. Operating hours are Mon-Wed 5-10pm, Thurs 5-11pm, Fri 5pm-1am, Sat 11am-1am and Sun 11am-11pm.

The lineup for this year’s White Plains Jazz Fest was recently announced at a kick-off breakfast. The festival, a 5-day celebration of jazz that will take place from September 13-17, is presented by ArtsWestchester, the White Plains BID and the City of White Plains. For the full lineup, see page A10. For more info, visit: artsw.org/jazzfest.
A new jazz club, featuring emerging jazz artists and established headliners, has recently opened in Tarrytown. Jazz Forum is a community-based performance and exhibition space that will present the programs of Jazz Forum Arts. The robust summer lineup includes headlining artists on Friday and Saturday nights, such as singer / pianist Freddy Cole (July 28 & 29) and the bebop beats of the Barry Harris Trio (August 4 & 5). “Brazilian Music Sundays” brings Brazilian groups, from the sounds of Samba by the Rootsy Rhythms Show (July 2) to jazz harmonica virtuoso Hendrik Meurkens and his quartet (August 13). Once monthly, on Saturday afternoons, Jazz Forum offers workshops for music lovers of all ages that explore various forms of jazz. In addition to musical performances, the club has a full bar and light fare cuisine, as well as a rotating exhibit of artworks by local and regional artists. For more info, visit: jazzforumarts.org.

Summit Music Festival Hones New Talent, Offers Public Performances

What began as a small summer camp has since become a music festival that offers extensive chamber music and instrumental training to pre-professional musicians from around the world. Participants from more than 20 countries develop a student-faculty collaboration in an intensive mentoring program. They also build networking opportunities with established musicians. The Summit Music Festival’s 27th season, which takes place at Manhattanville College in Pleasantville, offers more than 20 performances, including student and faculty concerts, master classes and more. Two all-student orchestras will perform during the final weekend: the Chamber Orchestra on August 11 and The Festival Orchestra on August 12. The festival also offers a schedule of special events by faculty and guest artists that are open to the public, which are followed by a reception at which guests can mingle with festival staff, musicians and students. Guests are invited to an evening of works by Debussy and Chopin featuring pianist Pavel Nersessian, world-renowned violin virtuoso Aaron Rosand and more. For more info, or for musicians interested in registering, visit: summitmusicfestival.org.

Artist Integrates Dance With Social Studies Lessons at School 16 in Yonkers

![School 16 in Yonkers with teaching artist Suzi Myers](photo credit: Tim Radigan)

ArtsWestchester Teaching Artist Suzi Myers worked with students from grades 1-4 to integrate dancing into the classes’ Social Studies curriculum by exploring the historical context of dance and its cross-cultural relationships. At a culminating end-of-the-year event, students performed various cultural dances from Spain, India and the United States. This artist residency was part of ArtsExcel, a program made possible with funds from the New York State Education Department through a Special Legislative Grant that is supported by the NYS Assembly, and Assemblymembers Shelley Mayer and Gary Pretlow, in partnership with ArtsWestchester and the Yonkers City School District.

Exclusive Event Brings Arts Patrons to Martha Stewart Estate

The Friends of ArtsWestchester, a group of individuals who are committed to preserving and growing the arts in Westchester, recently attended a private tour through the gardens on Martha Stewart’s local Cantitoe Corners estate. Guests explored Stewart’s 153-acre farm, including her flower and vegetable gardens and greenhouse. Members of this “Friends” group receive exclusive access to unique cultural experiences throughout the year in addition to all other membership benefits. For more info on becoming a Friends member, visit: artsw.org/friendsofartswestchester.

Caramoor Honors ArtsWestchester

Caramoor Center for Music and the Arts kicked off its summer season (more on page A12) with a gala that honored ArtsWestchester “for its steadfast support of Caramoor and advocacy for the arts in our community.” The gala night also highlighted Italian opera with a performance that featured artist-in-residence soprano Angela Meade and the Bel Canto Young Artists, under the baton of Will Crutchfield, in Caramoor’s Venetian Theater.

ArtsWestchester Members-Only Event Offered Private Exhibition Tour

!ArtsWestchester members enjoy a private tour led by ArtsWestchester’s Gallery Director Kathleen Reckling

Members of ArtsWestchester were recently invited to a private reception and an exclusive members-only tour of the organization’s current From the Streets exhibition. Members then joined the open-to-the-public “Stories and Sounds From Back in the Day” event, which featured hip-hop legends Grandmaster Caz and GrandWizzard Theodore. Members of ArtsWestchester receive special benefits, such as discounts to ArtsWestchester’s events and gift shop, a subscription to ArtsNews, invitations to exclusive member arts events throughout the year and more. For more info, visit: artsw.org/membership.

Event Highlights

Jazz Concerts at Lyndhurst Mansion

Lyndhurst Mansion and Jazz Forum Arts present Sunset Jazz at Lyndhurst, a series of jazz concerts that are set directly on the sweeping lawns of the Lyndhurst Mansion in Tarrytown. Performers include the Rocky Middleton Sextet, Ayako Shirasaki Quartet, Bill Warfield & Hell’s Kitchen Funk Orchestra and more. Performances take place on Thursday evenings from July 6 through August 24. lyndhurst.org

Emil Paolucci Summer Sounds Concert Series

New Rochelle Council on the Arts and New Rochelle Department of Parks and Recreation present the 10th season of the Emil Paolucci Summer Sounds concerts. The series showcases more than one dozen bands on the stage of the Hudson Park bandshell on consecutive Wednesdays and four Fridays through August 30. Included in the lineup are Greetings From Anywhere, a band whose roots-rock hybrid reinterprets feel-good songs (July 21); New Rochelle Opera, which will perform opera and Broadway favorites (August 2); and Dennis Bell Jazz NY ensemble, featuring vocalist Lynette Washington, which will present songs from the Great American Songbook (August 9). newrochellearts.org

The City of White Plains Presents Concerts, Shakespeare in the Park

The City of White Plains’ “Neighborhood Nights” concert series presents free outdoor events, from a Billy Joel cover band to family-friendly movie screenings, which all take place on weekday evenings at parks throughout the City. On July 13, ArtsWestchester will co-present a production of Hudson Valley Shakespeare Company’s Romeo & Juliet at Turnure Park. The play, which has been shortened to 85-minutes, makes no changes to Shakespeare’s original language. It does make the play more relatable to a present-day audience by updating the wardrobe to reflect modern sensibilities and by introducing a contemporary soundtrack between scene transitions. The production is geared toward middle- and high-school aged students. cityofwhiteplains.com

Backyard Concerts at Katonah Museum of Art

Katonah Museum of Art turns the mid-week slump into a series of family-friendly nights in its backyard on Wednesday nights. The Museum will welcome guests to picnic in its sculpture garden as they listen to Westchester-based bands jam. On July 12, Dogbone plays original songs and acoustic covers. On July 19, Sir Cadian Rhythm will play original rock, soul and jazz tunes. Mark di Suvero’s monumental sculpture Rust Angel is also on display in the sculpture garden. katonahmuseum.org

Schoolhouse Theater Remembers Artist Gert Mathiesen With Exhibition of His Work

When Danish painter, printmaker and ceramicist Gert Mathiesen unexpectedly passed away four years ago, what remained in his wake are more than 1,000 works from his life as an artist. Twenty-five of these works have been travelling, much as Mathiesen did in life, as his wife and fellow artist Pamela Smilow organized a touring exhibition. After being exhibited at the Museum of Danish America in Iowa and Nordia House in Oregon, the pieces return to their rightful home at the Schoolhouse Theater, where the artist met Smilow, had an art studio and created a great deal of his pieces. Prints, paintings, woodcut pieces and more now line the walls of the Theater’s gallery throughout the summer. His use of linoleum as a canvas, as opposed to a means by which to transfer work onto a separate surface, leads as an example of the innovative approaches that Mathiesen took in the creation of his work. Bursting with vibrant colors and bold, expressionistic shapes, many of these works reflect Mathiesen’s life story, referencing his Danish heritage and Viking roots, but also incorporating other cultures into the mix.

Schoolhouse Theater is devoted to presenting professional theater to its community in a space where new work is explored. Additionally, it exhibits the work of local artists in an art gallery that is housed in its Croton Falls location. Matheisen’s work is on display Tues, Wed and Thurs, from 11am-2:45pm and by calling 914-277-8477 for an appointment. For more info, visit: schoolhousetheater.org.

The Art of Civic Engagement in Port Chester

Ceramic artist Teddy Poneman, an artist-in-residence at Clay Art Center, is using his Bowling Together project to incentivize people to participate in civic engagement. Through this project, which was supported by one of ArtsWestchester’s Arts Alive grants, the artist is asking for people to complete four or more hours of volunteer work in Port Chester in exchange for a handmade bowl with a decal of one of the City’s landmarks. Approximately 200 bowls have been made, equating to at least 800 hours of volunteerism. On July 15, Bowling Together participants will attend an event at Clay Art Center at which they can pick up their bowls and see works on display, as well as meet and hear one another’s stories, during an open-to-the-public event. Explains Poneman: “It’s special when we can find common ground … this helps us to meet people with different stories and to expand our notions of community… When we disagree, we might have a more nuanced and humanized understanding of ‘the other side.’” The artist has sponsored community volunteer projects once a month since March, leading participants of all ages and backgrounds in clean-up projects. The artist will be accepting volunteers throughout July, until he runs out of bowls. Any remaining bowls will be sold for $20 each with proceeds being donated to Port Chester organizations. For more info, visit: bowlingtogether.org.

Arts Alive Grants Available for Local Artists and Arts Groups

ArtsWestchester is accepting applications from non-profit arts organizations and individual artists in Westchester for 2018 Arts Alive Grants. These grants are designed to help make arts and cultural activities easily accessible to a wide community audience, especially in areas where access is limited. Funds are available in three categories: Project Grants provide financial support for projects that demonstrate a strong community benefit. Artist Grants provide direct support for the creation of new work related to the community. Education Grants support in-school and after-school learning projects. The application deadline is October 4. Applications will go live on or before July 31. Several pre-application workshops will take place leading up to the deadline. For guidelines and workshop details, visit: artsw.org/artsalive.

New Rochelle Public Library Brings International Music and Dance to Its Stage

This summer, New Rochelle Public Library will kick off its 34th annual “International Music and Dance” series – a program that highlights cultural traditions from around the world. The five-event series begins with the traditions of Russia on July 11, when folk ensemble Barynya presents dances and songs with balalaika accompaniment. The group’s founder will offer explanatory narration and music. The Japanese Folk Dance Institute introduces the culture, history and spirit of Japan on July 18 through various traditional folk dances from all parts of the country. Arabian Dance by Aszmara on July 25 will be accompanied by folkloric music of Armenia, Turkey and Egypt. The stage comes to life again on August 1, when Bokandeye African Dance and Drum Troupe showcases the drumming, colorful costumes and dancing of African villages. The series closes on August 12, when Calpulli Mexican Dance Company are joined by students of the library’s Mexican dance classes. These dancers will celebrate Mexico’s diverse cultural history. All events will take place at the Ossie Davis Theater, aside from the August 12 event, which takes place in Ruby Dee Park at Library Green. For more info, visit: nrpl.org.

A Palo Seco Flamenco Company to Perform at Kykuit

Among its many roles, Tarrytown’s The Pocantico Center, which is managed by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, offers cultural events and lectures to the public as part of its support of artists and arts organizations in the greater New York City area. These programs aren’t chosen by the Fund, but rather by other non-profit arts organizations that nominate artists for performances and residencies. While the Fund’s support was previously limited to organizations in New York City, July 18 marks the first event that presents an artist based on a Westchester organization’s participation in the nomination process. Among the artists nominated by ArtsWestchester was flamenco dancer and choreographer Rebeca Tomás and her company A Palo Seco. Under the artistic direction of Tomás, who was named one of ArtsWestchester’s “50 for 50” artists when the organization celebrated its 50th anniversary, the group will perform flamenco styles that range from the masculine Las Farrucas to the improvisational Bulerias on the Kykuit tennis lawn stage on July 18. Often performing with only singing or percussive accompaniment, Tomas is hailed for her ability to present the traditions of flamenco with an innovative and modern context. For more info, visit: rbf.org.
Caramoor’s 72nd Season Offers a Variety of Cultural Performances Through July

Caramoor Center for Music and the Arts, where emerging and established musicians alike shine equally bright, is home to both world premieres and beloved masterpieces. The Center’s 72nd season continues through July 30, during which jazz, opera, country and classical music all take the stage.

Selections of American roots music draw from soul, country and bluegrass genres and will feature country folk-rock star Emmylou Harris on July 22, while Broadway favorite Sutton Foster makes her Caramoor debut with a selection of songs from the Great American Songbook on July 29. Jazz offerings include the popular all-day Jazz Festival, presented in collaboration with Jazz at Lincoln Center (July 15). Bel Canto Young Artists, who receive vocal technique training before demonstrating their operatic talent in a set of performances, celebrates its 20th and final year at the Center. They take the stage on July 8, 13 and 23. Singer-songwriter Gabriel Kahane will reunite with sextet yMusic for a memorable pairing of classical and pop music in the Spanish Courtyard on July 7. Along with the world premiere of a new work by Kahane that was commissioned by Caramoor for the event, yMusic and Kahane will each choose their favorite songs from the other’s repertoire to provide the framework for the night’s program.

Family-friendly “Dancing at Dusk” programs introduce guests to music and dance from around the globe, including Canada, Mexico and Russia (July 5, 19, 26). In addition to music on the stage(s), Sonic Innovations, three site-specific sound installations commissioned by each Hugh Livingston, Taylor Deupree and Margaret Noble, are installed on the Caramoor grounds throughout the summer. For more info, visit: caramoor.org.

Last Chance to Experience ArtsWestchester’s Street Art Exhibition

ArtsWestchester’s From the Streets spring exhibition comes to a close on July 15. The exhibition chronicles the rise of street artists, from vandal to cultural trendsetter, by exploring the evolution of a subculture that has become a global movement. The murals, paintings, photographs, installations and more highlight works from legendary artists of the 1980s in addition to showcasing artists who create innovative works that are informed by those pioneers. The show, co-curated by Marc Leader and Melissa McCaig-Welles, displays the work of more than 35 artists in ArtsWestchester’s historic landmark building.

On July 14, ArtsWestchester presents a screening of Saving Banksy in its gallery. Guests will mingle with artists and enjoy a drink while watching a screening of the acclaimed documentary. The film follows a misguided art collector’s attempts to save a painting by renowned artist Banksy from destruction and the auction block. All proceeds from the event will benefit arts programming at the Boys & Girls Club of Northern Westchester. On July 15, “Sound Check” celebrates From the Streets with a closing party reception that will feature live music by local performers.

The Shop at ArtsWestchester, open during gallery hours and programs (Tues-Fri 12-5pm and Sat 12-6pm), features works by artists from the Greater New York area, including exhibiting artist Wane. With each exhibition, the shop is re-curated with new artist and designer products that complement artwork that is currently exhibited in the gallery. Docent-led tours of From the Streets are also available by appointment through July 15. For more info on the exhibition and events, visit: artsww.org/fromthestreets.

Hudson River Museum Presents the Monumental Floral Gardens of Robert Zakanitch

Through September 17, Garden of Ornament will adorn the Hudson River Museum with whimsical painted gardens, carefully inhabited by creatures that weave in and out of its floral arrangements. This solo exhibition will feature the large-scale paintings of Robert Zakanitch, one of the founders of the Pattern and Decoration (P&D) movement of the mid-20th century, which was inspired by patterns of home furnishings. The vibrant works-on-display highlight the artist’s stylistic expansion, from his work with abstract patternmaking to his focus on nature.

In the 1970s, Zakanitch began to experiment with pattern and ornamentation, which directly challenged dominant art movements of the time, including Abstract Expressionism and Minimalism. Zakanitch explained: “I started doing paintings that were influenced by the linoleum floors we had as kids—these big roses, mostly flowers, and all these curlicues. I wanted to go in just the opposite direction of ‘less is more.’”

Garden of Ornament will display Zakanitch’s recent monumental 8-foot gouache paintings. In these extravagant works, Zakanitch breaks the rhythm of floral patterns with delicate birds, butterflies and hummingbirds for the viewer to contemplate. In “Tureens,” his 2007 series of oil paintings, Zakanitch demonstrates his desire to convey compassion through the decoration of objects that are associated with the home. Empire City Casino, an Architectural Gem in Yonkers

The recent $50 million expansion at Empire City Casino revamped the way in which a modern casino can be conceived. The design that New York City-based architecture firm, STUDIO V, created for the casino won a New York Design Award for “Commercial and Constructed Architecture.” Setting out to reinvent the modern casino, STUDIO V created a space that reflects functional, technical, social and aesthetic considerations. While a typical casino is cut off from its environment, Empire City Casino features a four-story high arc of frameless glass that expresses the internal energy of the casino on its exterior, and brings the structural drama of the unique architecture into the gaming hall.

High above this 35,000 square-foot gaming floor – the sixth largest in the country – rests laser-cut steel “clouds” that are covered with dichroic glass discs. These “clouds” offer a new interpretation of a traditional chandelier, illuminating the space. Along the length of this gaming floor also sits the “New York City Nail Wall” mural, which features Manhattan landmarks such as the Manhattan and Brooklyn Bridges and the Statue of Liberty.

A dramatic curved exterior façade features what is hailed as the largest window in the Northeast. More than 45 feet of frameless low iron glass in a 300-foot arc creates a window to the interior of the casino. The internal environment benefits from the wall as well, as natural light floods the atmosphere.

The modern departure from typical casino architecture presents a cohesive energy between the casino’s energetic interior and its organic exterior, making each reflective of one another. For more info, visit: empirecitycasino.com.
Kenneth R. Theobalds Honored for Support of the Arts

ArtsWestchester recently presented a special “Appreciation Award” to Kenneth Theobalds, on behalf of Entergy, for his dedication to community engagement and corporate responsibility. The honor was celebrated by Entergy’s guests, along with Theobalds’ colleagues, family and friends at Wykagyl Country Club in New Rochelle during a dinner that followed ArtsWestchester’s annual golf outing, for which Entergy has been a title sponsor for 15 years.

As a business leader, Theobalds values the ideals that also guide ArtsWestchester – equity, social justice, community building, education, and accessibility of the arts. At Entergy, where diversity and inclusion are a part of its mission, Theobalds is a voice for the arts as a means of improving communities, particularly in under-resourced areas of the county. In addition to Entergy’s steadfast support of ArtsWestchester, the company has helped sustain cultural venues from Yonkers to Peekskill including: Youth Theatre Interactions, Blue Door Art Center, PJ’s Jazz Society, the Revelators and Hudson Valley Center for Contemporary Art. Entergy’s ongoing partnership with the arts community has made possible countless cultural programs that have fostered access and inclusion to arts experiences to people of all ages throughout the county.

Andy Katell, Vice President in Entergy’s White Plains office explains: “Our company is proud to power not only our communities but also arts and culture across a diverse landscape accessible to all people... our commitment remains strong even as we prepare to wind down our nuclear operations at Indian Point in northern Westchester County in four years.”

With the leadership of Kenneth Theobalds and Andy Katell, and the commitment of Entergy to the nonprofit arts industry in the county, ArtsWestchester has been bolstered in its mission to keep the arts accessible to all citizens, regardless of socio-economic barriers. Theobalds has not only been the driving force behind the success of the ArtsWestchester annual golf outing, but he has been a relentless corporate champion of the value of the arts to Westchester residents and to the Westchester economy.
